Lee, Gene,

I'm not in this mailing list.
Feel free to post the link (below) to the story about the PDP-11s in the DC-10 Simulator.
I'm sure real DECcies can understand the slides... ;-) wow! Those pics brought back a lot of good memories!

The blue DecTape containers - I still have some of those in my workshop. I keep nuts'n'bolts'n'stuff in them :)

The idea of using a 'scope to fault find on a computer these days would never cross my mind!

You may like an update...

During 2010 we built an interface between the Link Miles DC-10 Simulator and Microsoft FlightSimulator to use the scenery engine for cockpit view only.
